

VMX-22 Commanding Officer's Message to the Families

Marines, Sailors and Families of the Argonauts,

I would like to express my sincere appreciation for the support and commitment of every member of the Argonaut family. As the premier Marine Corps' operational test squadron, VMX-22 relies upon the concerted efforts of a cohesive team to accomplish the mission. Whether active duty Marine, Sailor or civilian working in the hangar, or family member supporting from home, our success depends on balancing professional demands with our personal needs and the needs of our loved ones. To these ends the Unit, Personal and Family Readiness Program (UPFRP) has been developed to educate, assist and empower every member of the team to successfully negotiate military lifestyle challenges.

As a principal stakeholder I am resolutely committed to a vibrant UPFRP. I will recognize and reward our teams for their hard work by providing time away from the workplace when the mission allows and by sponsoring educational events, resource referrals, social functions and informal gatherings with our family members. My goal is to promote a healthy overall balance in our lives and ensure our organization maintains the highest levels of productivity.

Our full-time Family Readiness Officer is Ms. Anna-Marie Daley, an experienced advocate and practitioner of readiness programs and a spouse of an active duty Marine. Ms. Daley is the first line of communication for VMX-22's UPFRP and she stands ready to assist you with your family readiness needs. If you have questions, suggestions or wish to volunteer in any capacity, please contact her at (910) 449-4166.

It is a privilege to serve you as Commanding Officer of the Argonauts and I would personally encourage each of you to utilize available readiness resources. Again, thank you for your support and my best wishes for every success in the future.

Semper Fidelis,

Colonel Steven P. Brodfuehrer
Commanding Officer
Marine Tiltrotor Test and Evaluation Squadron 22
